CLOSE CALL OF MAUI'S OFFICERS

(From Thursday's Daily.)

The island steamers report that the weather at the other islands has been something almost without precedent during the last week. In fact, while 9.85. the Wilder steamship Maui, which Tr came into port yesterday, was lying at Laupahoehoe on Friday there came near being a tragedy attendant upon her trip. It was so close a call that the friends of Captain F. W. Bennett Purser Edward O'Brien were congratulating those gentlemen on the fact that they had both lived through an experience that comes to few men who live to tell of it. The Maul left here last week taking a consignment of Jap-anese laborers, some of whom were landed at Hana, Maul, and the rest were put ashore on Hawaii. It was on the shores of the big island that the close call came to the purser and the captain.

The sea began to get rough while the ship was lying at Papaaloa, and presently, before the landing wire could be unshipped, it parted and the big hook nme down with a run, while the freed nds of wire went into the sea. It was secured later, however, and so little damage was done. Then the Maui made a run for Laupahoehoe, and it was while coming ashore in the boat here that the purser and the captain had their close call. At this landing there is a tortuous channel, filled with rocks, and just as the boat came out of this channel she was caught by a big sea and turned over so quickly that but one of the native bontmen of the crew had a chance to jump clear. Captain Bennett and Purser O'Brien were both caught under the boat, and had not the next swell lifted it off them nothing in the world could have saved them from drowning. As it was, they were thrown on the jagged rocks and for a moment it seemed that the purser had been fatally hurt as it was, as he was all but unconscious when drawn upon the beach by friendly hands, and was utterly unable to help himself. He was revived, however presently, and is no worse now for the experience.

Shipping Notes. (From Thursday's daily.)

The schooner Helene is taking suga from the Mauna Loa.

The four-masted schooner Marston sailed for San Francisco with a ful cargo of sugar yesterday.

The Mokolii, the oldest and smalles of the Wilder fleet, is on the marine rallway getting a thorough cleaning. Capt. G. W. Bennett, now first officer on the Maui, is going to relieve Capt. Searles of the J. A. Cummins on Monday, the 20th.

The back Mobican will take in a cargo of 65,000 bags of sugar. Captain Kelly hopes to sail either Saturday or Monday for San Francisco.

The American-Hawaiian steamship will sail from Honolulu for San Francisco at noon, April 18, the first steamer to take mail to the Coast after the steamship China. The schooner Rosamond is loading sugar from the Niihau at the Railway wharf. The Nilhau, by the way, had the roughest trip to Hawaii this week that she has ever had, almost, The Mokolii will be taken to the Ewa end of the Hackfeld wharf and tied up there indefinitely. Everything movable on her upper works will be taken away

She has been on the Marine railway and treated to a preservation process. The Inter-Island steamer Mikahala came in from Kauai ports yesterday morning, and reported pretty weather on the trip. The Mikahala brought 4550 bags of sugar, and reports the following sugar on the Gar-def Isle: K. S. M., 800 bags; W., 400; Mak., 17,150; G. & R., 3,200; McB., 20,170;

K. P., 2,280; H. M., 4,794; G. F., 2,105; M. P. Co., 86,175; K. S. Co., 2,100; making a total of 139,174 bags. The pretty little barkentine Irmgard, which is about the fastest vessel in the island trade, came into port yesterday nine days and a half from San Fran-"And that doesn't beat the record" said Captain Schmidt. "I brought her down in eight days, once, but that We had fair was a long time ago. wind and smooth seas all the way, this time, and yesterday saw a sugar schooner out of Hilo, but I did not
